Privacy Shield vs. Safe Harbor

- Privacy Shield:
  - ◆ Provides additional rights for EU individuals.
    - > Binding arbitration
    - > Independent recourse mechanism
    - > Required organization response times
  - ◆ Increases compliance monitoring.
  - ◆ Adds obligations for transferring data to third parties.
  - ◆ Increases potential liability for unauthorized processing by agent of organization.
  - ◆ Adds limitations on government access to personal data.

Steps to Self-Certification under Privacy Shield

- Both your organization and the processing itself must be subject to the jurisdiction of:

Select Independent Recourse Mechanism

  - ◆ Must respond to complaints within 45 days.
- Independent resolution of complaints at no cost to individuals:

Effects of Certification

- Consequences:
  - ◆ Cross-border transfers permitted immediately.
  - ◆ Immediately subject to enforceability
- Existing contracts with third parties receiving personal information:
  - ◆ If self-certify by September 30, 2016, have 9 months to modify existing agreements
  - ◆ If self-certify after September 30, 2016: existing contracts must be in compliance when self-certify.

Other Implications of Certification

- Certifying organizations must re-certify on an annual basis.
- Continuing obligations of compliance even if the organization subsequently chooses to leave the Privacy Shield.
- Mergers and acquisitions:
  - ◆ Notification requirements with Dep't of Commerce
  - ◆ Will EU personal information need to be deleted?

Page 19

EU General Data Privacy Regulations

- Take effect in 2018
- Impose significantly tougher standards on EU personal data, including:
  - ◆ Privacy by design requirements
  - ◆ Stricter consent requirements (when consent is required)
  - ◆ Detailed security requirements for processors
  - ◆ Appointment of Data Protection Officer
  - ◆ Extraterritorial application

International Transfers under GDPR

- Privacy Shield should still be a recognized mechanism for cross-border transfers under GDPR
- But will Privacy Shield requirements become more onerous?
  - ◆ Privacy Shield now subject to annual evaluation.
  - ◆ Expect Privacy Shield requirements to change
- Unknowns:
  - ◆ How will new requirements apply to certified organizations?
  - ◆ What happens if withdraw certification but retain EU personal data?

Is Certification Worth It?

Benefits to Participation

- At this time, all Member States of EU are bound by the European Commission's finding of "adequacy."
- Participants deemed to provide "adequate" privacy protection.

But...

Will it last?

- Annual reassessment could lead to revocation or significant changes.
- Potential court challenges
  - ◆ Some DPAs are already questioning certain provisions of Privacy Shield.
  - ◆ Individual challenges (e.g., Schremms)

Other Options

- Standard Contractual Clauses
  - ◆ Already being used by many companies due to invalidation of Safe Harbor.
  - ◆ Currently the subject of another legal attack in the EU Court of Justice.
- Binding Corporate Rules
  - ◆ Used primarily by very large corporations
  - ◆ Expensive, time consuming process
- Consent of individuals
  - ◆ Often impractical

Page 25

Privacy Shield vs. Contractual Clauses

- For non-HR data, can have an industry-specific recourse mechanism in U.S.
  - ◆ SCCs subject you to EU jurisdiction.
- Contracting provisions with processors less onerous under Privacy Shield.
  - ◆ But Privacy Shield requires annual verification
- Privacy Shield more streamlined process-- new uses do not necessarily require new contract.

Page 26

Privacy Shield vs. Contractual Clauses

- SCC arrangements subject to less oversight by regulators.
  - ◆ Privacy Shield gives rise to prospect of posting on Dep't of Commerce's wall of shame.
- Privacy Shield complaint handling and redress requirements more onerous
- Privacy Shield compliance review likely to be invoked more often than SCC audit rights.

Final Considerations

- Groundwork might not be lost even if you choose later to leave Privacy Shield.
- May help drive engagement by top management if a corporate officer every year has to sign a verification about compliance.
