

eDiscovery for FOIA Requests

Warner

wnj.com

At the intersection of data, risk and the law, Warner provides highly efficient and cost-effective solutions to your eDiscovery headaches.

When reviewing documents for due diligence, an internal investigation, in response to subpoena requests or as part of a lawsuit, we help you hold down costs while safeguarding your interests – whether it's a small document request or bet-the-farm litigation. We pair our team of experienced attorney-reviewers with cutting-edge eDiscovery technology to deliver proven results.

Data Analytics + eDiscovery Practice Group Co-Chairs

Scott Carvo
Partner
scarvo@wnj.com
616.752.2759

Madelaine Lane
Partner
mlane@wnj.com
616.752.2468

Managing Municipal Data and FOIA Requests

Overwhelmed by a FOIA request? We use a high-tech, "SWAT team" approach – including our dedicated eDiscovery facility – to help manage data, reduce costs and deliver efficient results. Our eDiscovery strengths include:

- Managed document review and production.
- Document redaction.
- Technology-assisted review.
- Data collection, processing and hosting.
- eDiscovery motions and depositions.
- Protective orders.
- Subpoena response.

In both criminal and civil cases, we've handled eDiscovery on a massive scale, including some of the largest document cases in Michigan. Our breadth of experience spans document production to federal agencies, U.S. Congress, U.S. Department of Justice, state agencies, local prosecutors, litigants and major news networks.

Don't Just Take Our Word for It

We have extensive experience with FOIA requests and have represented villages, townships, cities and counties across Michigan. These include:

- A review of approximately 13,000 pages of old paper files to assist city with a FOIA request related to historical environmental sites. Our eDiscovery team scanned records and used technology tools to assist in electronic review of these documents both for responsiveness and privilege.
- Assisting an agency with review of large-volume of emails and electronic documents regarding budgeting, operations, and real estate acquisition related to dams. We used experience and electronic database to save the agency attorney time and costs associated with responsiveness and privilege review.

For assistance with an eDiscovery or FOIA request matter, please contact Warner's Data Analytics and eDiscovery Practice Group co-chairs Scott Carvo or Madelaine Lane.